COVID-19 and the new realities of today

As the spread of COVID-19 drives tremendous disruption of business worldwide, enterprises are grappling to adjust to the challenges of keeping their businesses running while allowing employees to work from home safely and remotely.

CafeX is offering complimentary use of Challo through July 1st, 2020 in consideration of the following business requirements:

1. Remote work: While working from home is common, many businesses aren't fully prepared for widespread enablement across the workforce. Simple but powerful tools are needed to support internal and company-to-company communication.

2. Business continuity: Business doesn't stop, whether it is engaging with clients, partners, teaching, learning, advising, recruiting or consulting.
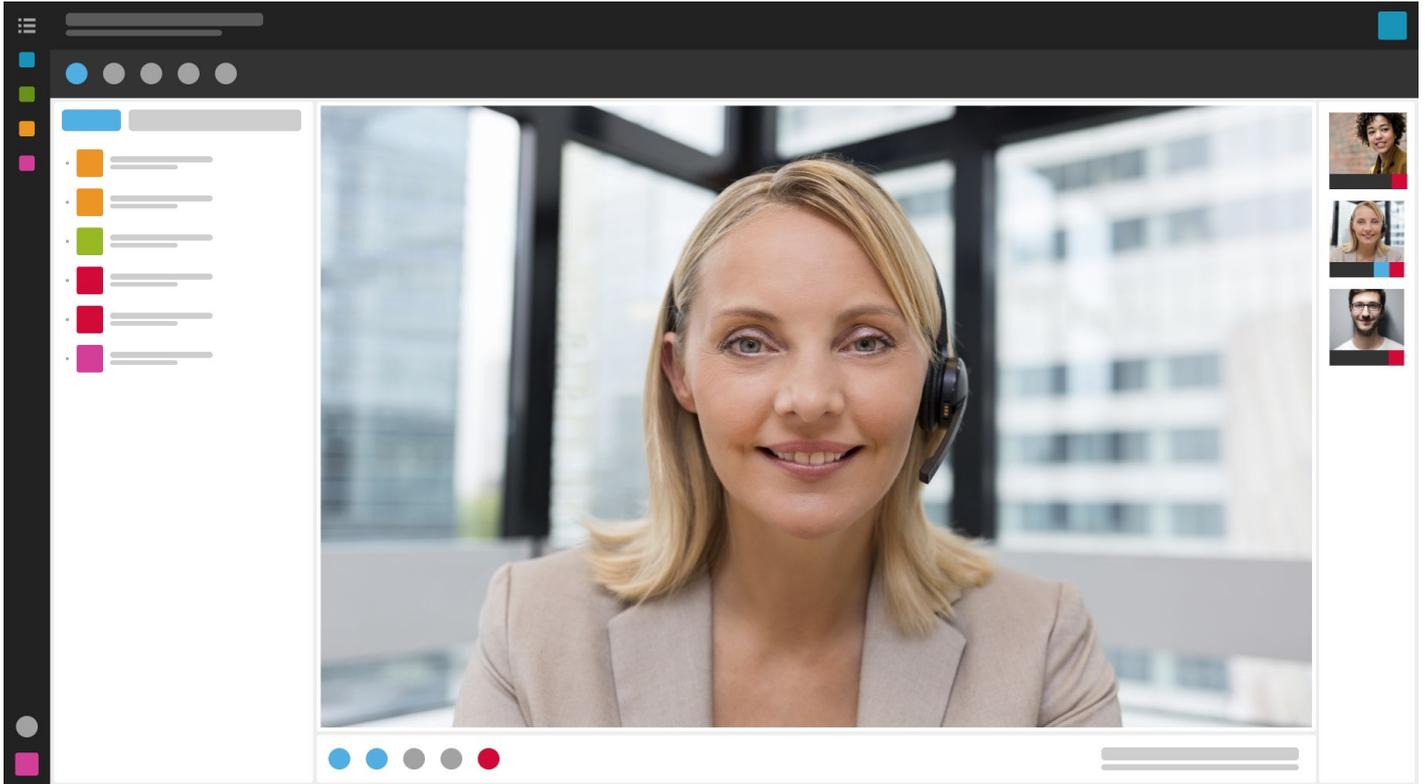

Companies need to ensure they have tools in place to meet, collaborate, access content and share it securely so that business continues with minimal interruption.

3. Multi-company work: Security, compliance and platform-agnostic integrations are more important than ever as companies continue to work with external parties online rather than in person. Preserving an audit trail of activities, approvals and communications is important to ensure compliance with company policies, especially for engagements that extend beyond company boundaries.

CafeX answers these challenges with Challo: one secure collaboration solution in the cloud that allows employees to work remotely, securely engaging with customers, partners and other businesses to continue operations with little to no impact.
